CARTE POSTALE.

York. Minster Yard. The great portal of the south transept faces the visitor as he enters Minster Yard from Stonegate. This transept is the earliest portion of the existing church and was built when Walter de Grey was Archbishop, 1215-1258. He was Chancellor of England 1205-1214, and twice Regent of the Kingdom under Henry III. Flights of steps lead up to the portal, which is flanked on either side by lancet windows, while above are lofty pointed windows and in the gable a great wheel or rose window.
